

What You Need to join Ms Linnea for Ukulele Learning

- * Be on time - which means around 5 or 10 minutes early for start time
- * Have your adult with you
- * Be sitting in a good armless upright chair, with proud posture (holding yourself up, not leaning back)
- * Have enough light shining on your face and front (rather than behind you, so you're in shadow to us)
- * Have your device across from you, showcasing your fretting hand (on the neck) and your strumming hand - and also showing your face enough.
- * Have your microphone unmuted and your video camera also operating (this is the usual for devices, but sometimes folks have disabled some things)
- * If there are 2 of you taking this lesson, it is better to be in 2 different rooms. If you must be in one room, please mute one of the devices for the whole class
- * Have a tuned ukulele. You have my Tuning Page in your booklet. Please be sure that the ukulele is tuned accurately to GCEA (strings left-to-right as you look at them with the neck pointing to the ceiling). I prefer real tuners, but phone app tuners are good too.

For example: "Tunefor Ukulele" (<https://apps.apple.com/ca/app/tunefor-ukulele-tuner-chords/id1153333408>).

My colleague, Cynthia Kinnunen offers this coaching on how to tune: <https://uitc.discussion.community/post/how-to-tune-your-ukulele-resource-page-10477927?pid=1311166545>

However, I will help get us sorted out and tuned on Day One.

I will send you a separate Zoom invitation the day before lessons begin. Same link every day.
Idea: You might make it a recurring calendar item so the link comes to you for every lesson .
